A Few Words

The Parry Distinguished Lectureship 2018 focuses on globalization and climate changes that have resulted in numerous challenges for nurses and other health professionals related to increased international mobility and transmission of infectious diseases across borders, emerging infectious diseases, pandemics, natural disasters, social and political instability, and the global migration crisis.

Dr. Wilson will discuss how nurses have unparalleled opportunities to assume leadership roles to contribute to improved global and planetary health at local, national, and international levels.

Objectives:

After this session, the learner will be able to:

1. Describe the concepts of Global Health, Planetary Health, Universal Health, and Global Nursing
2. Discuss the United Nations Sustainable Development Goals
3. Analyze major challenges to global and planetary health
4. Review recent recommendations and calls for strengthening nursing leadership to enhance global and planetary health
5. Discuss ways that nurses and midwives can contribute to global and planetary health
6. Examine strategies to integrate global health into nursing curricula
